The volume is extremely handsome and ornamental, the binding is magnificent, the paper excellent, the illustrations, which are said to number 3,000; admirably executed. There is much valuable information regarding tea and rubber cultivation, pearl fisheries, and every branch of trade and industry practised in the Island."

CHINA'S MINANCIAL RAFORM.

Proposals for a unitor a colouge for the Empire are once more b ing put forward in Peking with some show of urgency and sincerity, and it would appear that Professor Jenks' schome, which wa rejected two years ago, is now to be studied anew in the light of subsequent developments. The Treasury and the Ministry for Agriculture, Works and Commerce are reported to be moving in the mailer, but it is by no means clear that they appreciate the diffiret co between amateur recommendation and practical reform !! If in no other department of State affairs, at least in the reor, anization of her currency, it is essential for China to enlist the best expert advice, which can only be procured from abroad. The moment is opportune when a stimulus is forthcoming in a considerable shortage in the Central Treasury; for it must be remembered that with the exception of the Government and foreign merchants all interests in China may be reckoned upon to oppose any change in the present chaptic system of finance. If, bowever, there are to be changes, it is to be hoped that the advantage of adopting standards of measurement and weight as well as of value will be recognized. The principle exists in other countries; in India, for instance, the supeo weight a tola (from which is derived the word "tael") while the subsidiary coins weigh respectively 1 1 and 1 of a tola. In Great Britain, the legal weight of a penny is 1/3 oz., of a halfpenny 1/5 oz., and of a farthing 1/10 oz., and the halfpenny is or e inch in diameter. A new standard coin for China should not be a tael, which is too big; it might be made to weigh a tael and to measure a useful standard. say an inch .- N. C. D. News

DISANTROUS FIRE IN SHOUL.

DAM GES ESTIMATE ! AT Y200,000.

Early on Tuesday morning, reports the Japin Chronicle of 4th in tant, a disastrous fire, occurred in the Japanese quarter in Seoul, Korea. The fire originated in the Kikusuiro, a Japanese restaurant. The flames rapidly spread to the adjoining houses, and travelled across the road, destroying the large brick building of the Japan Club,

In all to houses were totally dest oyed and badly damaged, the damages being estimated at + bout Y 200,000. There was no wind at the time, but the incomplete organisation of the fire-brigade, and the scarcity of water, are responsible for the widespread damage. Many girls were sleeping in upper rooms of the restaurant where the fire originated, and before the alarm was raised the flames had obtained almost complete hold of the house. Many of the waitresses leapt from the windows, and some of them were injured. Happily no one was killed.

WEDDING AT YUROHAMA.

An interesting wedding ceremony took place at noon on October tat at No. 264 Bluff, Yoko. hama, the residence of Mr. N. W. McIvor, reports the Jupan Gazette. The house had been prettily decorated, and in the drawing room while flowers were nost profusely displayed, The contracting parties were Miss Margaret V. H. Mason, of biladelpha, U.S.A., and Mr. W. II. Taylor, of Manila. Mr. Taylor, who is the accountant of the International Banking Corporation's Manila office, arrived in Yokohama some days ago and awaited Miss Mason, who crossed the Pacific by the Hongkon tomaru, Landing at 9.30 in the morning she proceeded to Mr. McIvor's house and had time only to change into a charming wedding costume which she had brought with her. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. E. S. Booth, and Mr. M. D. Currip acted as best man, The house caremony was preceded by an official registration at the American Consulate-General, A bridal tiffin was given at No. 264, Mr. McIvor proposing the health and happiness of the newly wedded couple. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were to proceed to Kobe, where they were to join the Hongkong. maru for the southward fourner.

THE CHINESE COMPRADORE.

The figure of the Chinese Compradore, i not, at first night, a promising peint depout for historical dissertation. He is encompassed; is true, with the dignity of power, yet the some what drab nature of his duties seems to preclude the possibility of connecting him with the dignity of traditions. But in so far as he presents the best features of our relations with Chins, and is the outcome of our intercourse with her, he is both dignified and interesting. He represents the threefold significance of very long period, the period to which Captain Brickley has given the term preconventional extending from the middle of the seventeenth century to the middle of the nineteenth, and we can place him in direct relation with the main events which took place during that time. The commercial significance those years may be dealt with first. When England introduced herself to the Far Enst large part of her commerce was in the hands of the East ladia Company. The Company was: monopolistic, and resented the competition of men, who were known to the eighteenth century as " Interiopers." Their efforts, indeed, rouse'l considerable discussion and animosity. Yet when the Company came to trade with China it was met by a Society more rigorously. monopolistic than itself. This was the Syndicate of local firms known as HONG MERCHANTS

At first they exercised, from the Company! point of view, very useful functions Englishmen, in those days, had no facilities for reaching either the Chinese producer or .. consumer, and, without the assistance of the Hong Merchants, they must have had recourse to retail transactions in the neigh bourhood of their own warehouses. The Syndiente acted as a group of middlemen and it was only through them that trade, on an extensive and profitable scale, was possible. Or the other hand, as English merchants became more familiar with their surroundings, and more capable of direct intercourse, the Syndicate exercised very irritating restrictions. The result was that the Company found itself in a position very similar to that in which its. old enemies, the Interlopers, stood. It met with a form of poetic justice under which it suffered all the annoyance which it had itself imposed upon others. Englishmen claimed that China was purposely putting obstacles in the way of their commercial expansion and thus began the first phase of the "open door" question. China was charged with an obstinate exclusiveness, and various remedies were soon tried. Escape was sought by smugg! ing, by ignoring the existence of the Hang Merchants, and by threatening to withdraw from trade altogether. Throughout the first half of the nineteenth century our commercial relations with China were marked by the most confusing and disorderly series of events, clear in one respect only, namely, in the existence of complete misuaderstanding upon either side. England clamoured for an open door and China remained barred and bolted by distrust. length, in 1747, the Hong Merchants were abolished by I reaty. Into their place slipped the Compradore. He took over the commercial. functions of the Syndicate, dissociated from the monopolistic tendencies which had previously marked them. Thus the Comprad ire represents the first phase of the purely commercial side of

THE "OPEN DOR" POLICY. English traders are now able to utilize the services of middlemen without-feeling themselves hampered by them. The Compradore stands to-day for liberty won after long and hard struggles, and for the removal of the misunderstanding which resulted in an unpolitical obstinacy on the part of China, and a regrettable unscrupulousness on that of England. He stands, in fact, for the commercial significance of the two centuries covered by the preconventional period,

But the Syndicate of the Hong Merchants was not only commercial; it was a political body as well. In return for its monopoly of China's trade with fireigners, it be ame security for their payment of duties and for their good behaviour. When English merchants began to trade at Canton at the end of the seventeenth century, there was no such thing as a Consul. . There were no recognized spheres of jurisdiction, no fixed tariffs, no harbour regulation and no police. The directors of the East India Company had no authority to delegate consular powers to their representatives, and when they delegated such powers, they never informed the Chinese Government of the fact. Consequently, the consular representatives of the Company were never officially recognized by the Chinese local officials, who insisted that all business whether of a commercial or of an official character should be conducted through the agency of the Hong Merchants. Thus Englishmen found themselves in the galling situation of being treated as adventurers, possessed of no credentials sufficiently satisfactory to the perple who were ready enough to buy and sell with them. The absurdity, of the situation was at length realized by the English Government. Figst came the Earl of Macartney's mission in 1793. He received a brilliant welcome but achieved little. Then in 1816 came the mission of Lord Amherst with the object of establishing an Imperial Court of Appeal from the "capricious and despotic" local officials in Canton, a mission which was equally fruitless, Next, in 1834, the Charter of the East India Company was not renewed and its commercial agents were replaced by three "Superintendents of Trade." The chiefof these, Lord Napier, was sen! out without any previous notice being given to the Chinese Government and consequently the Canton officials refused to have any direct relations with him. The impasse created by the existence of the Hong Merchants now became more impossible than ever. Lord Napler endeavoured to convey his letter of instructions without employing them as media. He could find nobody to transmit it, whereupon he retired from Canton and lived in solemu seclusion, abstaining from all contact with local official-

dom. His successor, Captain Elliot, realized

the impossibility of such a policy and expressed his readiness to communicate through the Houg Merchants, but this policy broke down po well. Regntually and the state of the

THE OPIUM QUESTION brought matter to a crisis. War broke out it 1840 and continued until 1841 and its rea significance is made quite clear by the Treat of Nanking, for while no mention was made of the opium question, one of the chief result was the abolition of the liong system. Its place, as has already been pointed out, was taken by the Compradore. Just as Englishmen; had struggled against the monopolistic tendency of the Hong Merchants, so they struggled against their political powers and by the abolition of the Hong System they were brought into direct contact with Chinese officials. Thus the Compradore is brought into direct connexion with the purely political significance of the first two centuries of British intercourse with Chios and he stands for the political, no less than for the commercial, fruit of those laborious years.

Yet it I', perhaps, from the personal point of view that the Compradore is most interesting. Remark the for many qualities, he is distinguished in particular by honesty. There have have been cases of infidelity, but

COMPRADORES AS A CLASS have shown trustworthiness rendered the more extraordinary by the circumstances in which i has been displayed. They are serving aliens, men whose whole attitude towards life is comparable with their own in one particular only, in their eagerness to make money. They ac as middlemen between two nations who still op-nly distrust one another, and whose past, relations have been marked by the most regrettable occurrences. They are in touch with all the anti-foreign feeling, which still prevails in China, and which, from time to time; given evidence of the sharpest recrudescence. They are induced to their vocation by no sentimental reasons, and they live in a world remote from sentimental considerations. Yet their employers nearly always find them both willing and conscientious. They are entrusted with large transactions, and allowed a degree. of independence which they might easily turn to their own account. In spite of all the duplicity which marks them and their nation is in other respects, they have shown the greatest RESPECT FOR COMMERCIAL RECTITUDE. The, fact, is both an augury and an interpretation. It is an auguary of the fidelity which we may expect from the Nation as a whole in all its engagements with ourselves. It is an interpretation of the success with which we have conducted our intercourse with the whole of the Eist. That success has been due also, of course, to a questionable promptitude, and to a vigorous application of superior political strength. Cur position in the East has not been attained with entirely clean hands. It is maintained too, in the last resort, by the power of the sword. But it has been won, and held, by something more than physical force. It is the result of an invaluable capacity, of a peculiar temperament... We have dominated by a personality which has i s foundations in our own prowess, but in the wider sense of fidelity and justice. We have impressed the East not only with our own reliability, but our readiness to trust. We may have given many proofs of intolerance and arrogance, but we have, through a long and difficult period, given few of injustice or chicanery. It is from this point of view

MOTHERS SHOULD KNOW. The troubles with multitudes of girls is a want of proper nourishment and enough of Now-a-days they call this condition by the learned name of Anemia. But words change no facts. There are thousands of girls of this kind anywhere between childhood and young ladyhood. Disease finds most of its victims among them. . They are too weak and frail to resist. Some of them are passing through the mysterious changes which lead up to maturity and need especial watchfulness and care. Alas, how many break down at this critical period the story of such losses is the saddest in the history of home. The proper treatment might have saved most of these household treasures. if the mothers had only known of WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION and given it to their daughters, they would have grown to be strong and healthy women. It is phlatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined ! with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In building up pale, puny, emaciated children, particularly those troubled with Anemia, Scrofula, Rickets, and Bone and Blood diseases, nothing equals it; its tonic qualities are of the highest order. A Medical Institution says "We have used your preparation in Treating children for coughs; colds and inflammation its application has never failed us in any case. even the most aggravated bordering on oniapneum. The children like it, and it builds up their bodies; many little children owe their lives to it." The more it is used the less will be the ravages of disease from infancy to old age. It is both a food and a medicine,modern, scientific, and effective from the first dose. It never deceives or disappoints, and is the medicinal triumph of our time. "There is no doubt about it." JAPANESE vs. BRITISH SHIP. PING INTERESTS.

If credence may be attached to the reports which are published in the vernacular newspapers of Japan it would appear that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha have discovered that in attempting to oust Messrs. Butter field and Swire from the Hongkong-Swatow-Bangkok trade they reckoned without their host. When the subsidised steamers belonging to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha had been returned by the Government at the close of the war, it was announced that the the origin of the statement which, quite a premier shipping company of Japan had month ago, was telegraphed from Wall Street determined to inaugurate a coast service to London, to the effect that China had reof steamers which would ply between so'ved to adopt the gold standard. We should Messra. Butterfield-and-Swire-backward-in be glad-to-have some light-on-the subject of accepting the challenge. The Chinese-owned vessels are generally operated by companies whose interests are spread over Singapore and Bangkok, so that freights at both ends are assured. It is difficult to understand how the Japanese could succeed in attracting even a part of those cargoes to themselves. The other boats on the run are employed under special charters or are so well and favourably known that shippers would think twice before passing old friends. The Japanese will have a hard tussle to make headway in the Southern Settlement even should the shipping trade experience a revival of prosperity which is not immediately anticipated.

In the next low minutes the Muli Wo was ploughing through the sea as fast as the wind and her carsmen would allow,

"Cargo boat, Stop!" We want to speak with you," came a voice from the fishing boats No attention was paid. Instead of stopping the Mus Wo was pushed ahead, the order to stop seeming to have lent more power to the crew. But when a shower of bullets whistled dangerously over their heads the Mui We came to a standstill, while the crew took shalter from a further volley.

Ten minutes later the fishing boat drew alongside and twenty men, all armed with new rifles, sprang on board. The crew were driven into a hold and battened down until the earl morning of the 4 h instant when 'the skipper and his fokis, were sent ashore on an uninhabited island to shift for themselves. The pirates then sailed a say, taking with them the two women and the child, and some hours later were lost from view. The cargo-boat, which was valued at $1,400, had on board $640 worth of clothing, and jewellery, the property of the crew, and $650 worth of pearls, the personal property of the passenger.

Once ashore the skipper discovered that two of his crew-the steersman and a seamanwere missing. They were not on board the cargo-boat when they left it, and the only con clu.ion that could be arrived at was that during the excitement both men jumped overboard and were drowned. For two days the refugees remained on the island without food or water, and, without sighting a sail. On the morning of the third day, however, when they had almost given up hope of being rescued, a passing fishing boat, which was bound for Stabley was hailed, and in that the unfortunate crew were put ashore at Aberdeen, arriving there on the 13th instant. Thence they left for Yau-ma-ti, where they were received by friend who took care of them until yesterday when the occurrence was reported to Inspector Kerr, at Taim-tag-taui Police Station,

The skipper and his men-who appeared to be an ignorant lot-could not supply the police with any other information than the bare facts of what had taken place. They could not stat the locality where they were pirated, nor could they give the name of the island on which were imprisoned for two days and a night. A member of the crew thought he was put ashore near Cheung-chan, but this proved to be incorrect as there is always a large fishing fleet around those islands and their presence on the island would have been noticed enilier. It is believed, however, that they wer put ashore at Pa Tung.

Throughout the day the skipper and several detectives have been searching ground the harbour most carefully in the hope of locating the pirates—as was do ie in a case which oc curred not so very long ago-but as far as could be learnt their search has been a fruit

PATROLLING THE SOUTHERN

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

[Film a Correspondent.] Canton, 14th October, 1957.

I forward you betowith literal translations three important telegrams that have, been ex changed between the Waiwupu at Peking and the Canton Viceroy. These telegraphic despatches relate to the vexed question of the patrolling of the West River and the pirate-infested waterways of South China. It will be seen from one of these despatches that the British Commander In-Chief has been in conference with H. S. M.'s Minister at Peking by whom representations were made to the Waiwupu. . h most important of these recommendations refers to the control of the cruising fleet to be buil for the purpose of river patrol. Admiral Moore's views on the matter appear to exactly fit with those of the Hongkong Telegraph which, over a year ago, after the Sainam tragedy, advocated for the vesting of the river-policing into the hands of the Commissioner of the Imperial Maritime Customs. Appended are the telegrams:-

[Telegram from the Board of Foreign Affairs to the Viceroy of Liang Kwang.

H.E. Viceroy of Kwangtung, " Hung " () The British Minister has represented that the tour additional fast cruisers for the West River should be placed under the control of the Commissioner of Customs. We have repeatedly protested against this. The British Admiral Kwangtung are unfit for service.

We ought to lose no time in ameliorating this state of affairs to avoid their interference. Revenue to put aside the sum of Tls. 200,000 for initiating the river patrol scheme, we should give oide a for the purchase of the new boats for active service, so as not to give fore igners any cause for complaint.

It is, however, expedient to d stinguish the right of control,

We propose to lay the respons bility of arresting pirates upon the local officials and that of searching for amugglers on the Customs.

Please arrange with the Customs.

Please also arrange with the commissioner as to the proper method for conducting this matter. In the meantime, a permanent fund for this expenditure should be raised and the matter should be given attention without delay.

The case of piracy that occurred two months ago was a serious one. The Chinese cruisers were said to be incapable of ar esting any of the pitates, who became bolder every day becau e the officials did not exert themselves and their system of policing was deplorable. He said that his duty was to protect' British in-

If China was not going to effect speedy reform he had to take the matter into his hands. Now robbers are always prevalent in the province of Kwangtung and cases of piracy are happening too frequently on the West River. The local officials do not exert themselves in arresting the pitates and foreigners have good cause for complaint.

A speedy reform is truly necessary,

In the first place, guar I-boats should be strictly ordered to keep a vigilant watch over the river and arrest all the pirates; and in the second place, magistrates of districts along the river should be strictly ordered to detect and clear all the lairs of robbers in the interior. Within the past few days heavy rain has Rewards should be offered, and time restricted, for the apprehension and punishment of all the pirates connected with each and every case

Acting Admiral Ch'un has been an able officer and it is for you to decide whether he should be instructed to take charge of the matter for the safety of native and foreign merch nis so as to avoid excuses taken-b foreigners for their interference.

port the manner of conducting the affair for your approval after consulting with the Acting Admiral Ch'un.

But there is a great deal of inconvenience is the additional cruisers now proposed be placed. under the control of the Commissioner of Customs as requested by the British Minister,

It is an unquestionable fact that the Commissioner has no power of a Superintendent o Police and interference out of his jurisdiction is not permissible. The sphere of influence should be distinctly defined and only the right of searching for smugglers be under his control. For this service there are sufficient faunches at the disposal of the Maritime Customs and no, more need be added for the pre-

Moreover, the proposal for additional cruisers is a special feature for the Police and has nothing to do with the searching for smugglers.

The West River from Chluchow and Wuchow upwards down to the Chil Kiang estuary is everywhere infested with pirates and the means for the patrolling thereof with the four additional cruisers as now proposed is still considered inadequate, and therefore it is impossible for them to perform the duty of revenue cruisers at the same time. .. l'esides, the local Government is responsible for the policing of a place.

Therefore even were these Cruisers required to search for smugglers, they should still be un er the control of the local authorities and their dignity would thus not be tampered with.

No foreigner should interfere with the matter as to who shall take charge, because it is a policy of internal government.

. Now I request you to raply to the British Minister promising that four additional fast steam cruisers' shall be purchased for the province of Kwangtung and a strict Police also stated that the cruisers in the province of system will be undertaken for the extinction of the prevailing piracy. But the service shall be under the control of the Admiral while the Commissioner cannot be allowed to take charge Now, having arranged with the Ministry of as it will interfete with the right of self-

EXPLAINED. While the McClillan was lying in Hongkong harbour some speculation area: over the flag which flew from the mainmast. The explanation it given by the Cableness in the following

"MCCLELLAN'S" MYSTERIOUS SYMBOL

When the transport dleClell an approaches Corregidor next week bound for Manila with the Secretary of War on board, the first thing which will attract the attention of the signal sergeant, on watch, if it be daylight, will be the flag flying from the vessel's mainmast. No other will be necessary to inform the signalman that the Secretary of War is fast approaching, for it will be as clearly read as though it was a huge tablet with a full description written upon its face,

It may be of interest to those; who are not familiar with this flag to give a brief description of its characteristics, thus enabling us to easily recognize it when see i.

The field of the Secretary of War's flag is red. An eagle with wings outspread, facing the observer and resting upon the national coat of arms, is worked in the centre of the flag. This figure is very similar to that shown on each of the coins in circulation in the I hilippines. In its right claw a branch of olives i held; in the left is a bunch of arrows. Immediately, above the head of the great bird is a white, circular halo, inside of which are placed theteen stars, while the eagle holds with its beak's wavy ribbon with the legend . E. Fluribus Unum" appearing thereon. Placed near each corner is a large, white star. Blue, yellow, white and black bunting enter into the make-up of this flag which is of a design more difficult to make than the President's, as it differs from the Cnief Executive's in that it has the four stars in the corners while in the President's these do not appear. The President's flag is, with two exceptions, exactly. similar to the Secretary of War's. The latter, as stated above, has a red field and a star in each correr, while the former has, a blue field and no star in the corners. The flag which is on board the McClellan was ordered last week by Captain Scott of the Ouarter-master's Department, Manila, The Army was without a Secretary of War flag of the dimensions desired and it was left to the Quartermaster to secure one and that without undue delay. The Army, having no facilities for making this ensign, called upon the Cavite naval station to supply their needs. The havy storekeeper was unable to fure ish the d sired article b t suggested that one could be mantifactured at the station and completed before the sailing of the McClellan for Hongkong.

THE PROMENADE CONCERT. THREATENING WEATHER MILITATES AGAINST

LARGE ATTENDANCE. Last night, the second promenade concert of the season was held on the Volunteer Parade Ground. The attendance was not so large as was anticipated, but from a musical standpoint the concert was an entire success. The wea ther during the evening looked very threatening indeed, and this, no doubt, kept away a good many people, who would other wise have been present. As it was, only a third of the seats were occupied when the orchestra began. This was a pity, considering the excellent programme which had been arranged. The rain, fortunately, kept off, and throughout the evening a fresh northerly wind kept things pleasant and cool:

The Band of the Middlesex Regiment opened the programme with the " Bona Fide " March, after which Mr. W. H. Claston mounted the tiny stage, which was tastefully decorated with bunting, and sang "Out on the Deep. Mr. Claxton possesses a fine baritone voice, and sings well. The next item, "Nievarna," supp by Mr. S. Moore, deserved the hearty applause given by his listeners. The Valse Lente and Pizzicato Polka ("Silvia"), played by Mr. Jokl (violin), Mr. Koenig (cello) and Mr. Grimble (piano), was a real treat. These three gentlemen are all capable instrumentalists and always delight their audience. Mrs. A. G. Gordon then sang the old song "Kathleen Mayourneen," which gained for her bearty applause. Mrs. Gordon has a powerful contralto voice, which was heard to great advantage in the open air. She was lustily encored, but did not appear again, and the audience had to be content with the knowledge that she would re-appear later. 'Riding on top of a 'bus," by Mr. Benedatto, amused the audience considerably. His delivery was sufficiently farcical without being silly. The stage, however, was too small to allow him much room for his movements, which always give more effect to a piece of this kind. Mr. W. A. Hannibal sang the comic song "He was as married man," and being re-called gave imitations of the recitation of Rudyard Kipling's well-known poem, "The Absent-Minded Beggar" by a wheezy old parson, but without result, to dispose of their stocks, a costermonger and a person who thought | The large arrival of foreign cement and he could recite, but couldn't. A JAPANESE COMPLAINT. The Osaka Mainichi complaints of the action of the Japan Sugar Refivery Company, Limited, siece it aborbed the Dairi Sugar Refining Mill. n buying up the Dairi Mill, and thus monopolising the sugar refining business in Japan, is pointed out, the company declared that it would concentrate its energies upon the extension of the market abroad, and check the rise in the price of sugar at home, thus endeavouring to avoid the usual attendant evils of mono polics. The company, however, has entirely ignered this declaration, and has availed itself of the advance in the market of raw sugar to raise the price of sugar. Since the absorption of the Dairi Mill, the company has been improving its business methods. The Osaka journal contends that it is only proper for the company to change old methods in order to save working expenses and increase profits, but the company should not lose sight of the fact that as it tries to multiply its profit, so the price of sugar advances, to the inconvenience and loss of the public. It is to be deplored that the company shows a tendency to ignore its former declaration, and to plunge into the avils of a monopolised business. There is some excuse for a company resorting to such a course if its business is not paying, but the company in question has been making good profits, as is shown by the fact that it was able to pay a dividend of 20 per cent even for the last half-year-a period of depression for the sugar market. Without raising the price of sugar, the company should be able to make a larger profit than before by the saving of expenses incurred by competition, which the amalg mation with the Dairi Mill has rendered unnecessary. Despite this, the market of sugar

THE JAPANESE CEMENT TRADE

HOPEFUL PROSPECTS In reference to the prospects of the cement trade, a vernacular contemporary remarks that during last spring, when the business boom was still active, large orders were issued for foreign cement on speculation, and about 80,000 casks arrived at Yokohama and about 12,000 at Kobe in June last. By that time, however, a great change had taken place in the economic situation, many new companies had collapsed, and the demand for cement had practically ceased The American cement was found to be inferior in quality, and importers made great efforts recent inundations beavy damages were caused. soon call for a large demand for cement, and the market has therefore a good pr.spect. PROVISIONAL MEASURES TO DE TAKEN

As has previously been pointed out, the water reservoirs at Nunobiki and Karasuhara were designed to supply a population of 250,000. The population of the city, however, has now reached 345,000 and the limit of the present supply has been almost reached. It has been previously stated that a large waterworks extension is consequently under consideration by the authorities, but as urgent measures are necessary it is intended in the first instance to lay down three filter beds and one distribution pond at Kitano and another line of pipes between Kitano and Nunobiki. By the end, also, of the forty-second fiscal year (1909-to) it is hoped that it will be possible to provide a meter at each house to which water is supplied in order to check waste. The laying of the filter beds, etc. is estimated to cost Y100,000, while the provision of maters about Y250,000. When these measures have been completed, the big extension scho no will be undertaken. It is also stated that the streams of the Futatable and tenno valleys will be utilised in cases of emergency -- Kabe, Herald.

THE MALAY STATES.

A RECORD OF PROGRESS.

The report of the High Commissioner of the Straits Settlements on the Federated Malay States for 1906 is issued as a Blue-book and is of the most satisfactory nature. It says that the progress of the States continues unchecked, the revenue of the year, after providing for an expenditure of 7,721,761 dols, on the Johore railway, showing a surplus of 5, 00,000 dols. Part of the surplus is due to the saving on establishments due to the rise in the exchange value of the dollar, but there has also been a Company, Limited, Kowloon, whence delivery may be obtained. large expansion of the revenue under almost every head. The high price of tin during the year led to a large increase in the receipts. from the duty on that metal in spite of a falling off in production. With the increasing application of machinery to the lower grade mines the decline in production is not likely to be permanent, and with the continuance of. a high level in prices there is no cause for > industry. The planting of rubber has made great strides during the year, the area planted having increased from 38,000 acres, as stated on page 5 of the Resident General's report for 1905, to 100,000 acres, and the area alienated for rubber. plining has doubled. As was anticipated in the despatch forwarding the reports for 1905, a substantial beginning has already been made in rubber cultivation in Pabang, and the High-Commissioner looks forward to a rapid increase in the near futire, in view of the comparatively easy terms under which land can be acquired in Pahang. The large increase in the applications for land has accentuated the pressure on the Revenue Survey Departments of the States, and the accumulation of arrears has become

All claims must be presented within ten days But now that they understand that the of the steamer's arrival here after which date Government is not prepared to do this they are taking steps to conform to the requirements of the liw, and he did not anticipate that there would be any further trouble or cause of complaint in regard to this matter. One of the most satisfactory features in the report is the diminution of crime in spite of the growth of population. The policy of deporting men who are found to be practically permanent gaol birds has no doubt assisted to bring about this result, but the excellent work done by the police has also contributed to it in a large measure.

The rapid increase in school attendance was very satisfactory. A considerable amount of CONSIGNEES of Cargo from London ex s.s. Dordoyne, from Havre 'ex s.s. Science has indeed made giant strides during the past century, and among the by no means least inter-portant—discoveries in medicine comes that of renuine and reliable l'atent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, beer used in the Continental Respitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jovert, Velprau, Malsonneuve, the well-known Chassaig-nac, and indeed by all who are regarded as autho-rities in such matters, including the celebrated Lallemand, and Rouz, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy; we think there is no doubt. From that image Aristotla downwards, a potent agent in the rembral of these diseases has (like the famed philosopher's stone) been the object of search of sonic hopeful, generous minds; and far beyond the mere power—, if such could ever have been discovered—of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovered agency of a semedy power and a semedy covery of a semedy so potent as to replenish the fall-ing energies of the confirmed sem in the one case, and in the other so effectually, speedily and exfely to expel from the system without the aid, or even

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY which may certainly rank with, if not take paces dence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which no little estention and solve have been made, and the extensive and over-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine where ever introduced appears to prove that it is det-tined to cast into oblivion all those questionable med cal men. Therapion may be o'dained of the principal chemie's and merchants throughout the world.—Dismond Firlds Advertises, Kimana Lay.
